

Mr. Jean-Francois LEGOURD, Singapore

Jean-Francois Legourd is a French entrepreneur and business executive with a diverse international career spanning across all verticals in the consumer technology industry. He is currently the co-founder and Chief Operating Officer of Elfie, an international health startup (70 employees in over 10 countries and 350,000 patients) focused on cardiovascular risk prevention and chronic disease management operations.

Before venturing into entrepreneurship, Jean-Francois accumulated extensive experience in the technology and telecommunications sectors. He spent 17 years working for prominent companies such as Microsoft in France, Gartner in Africa and the UK, and Singtel and Samsung in South Korea and Asia. His roles ranged from product development, M&A, e-commerce, analytics, and innovation.

Jean-Francois holds an MBA from INSEAD, resides in Singapore and has two Chinese- and English-speaking French-Singaporean children.