

Associate Prof. Amr ABDIN, Syria and Germany

I am an associate Professor and a certified heart failure and device consultant working at University Hospital Saarland in Germany. I have gained a great experience in internal medicine and cardiology working at Damascus and Germany.

Since 2019, I have been elected as the Chairman of the Syrian National Heart Failure working group. Working with my team, we have managed to help improve many heart failure facilities in Syria. Moreover, I help to organize many educative sessions and workshops for the Cardiologists in Syria.
